

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It is an immense pleasure for me today as I have been able to complete my work and submit this thesis titled “Microfinance for Poverty Reduction: Towards Improving the Outreach in Gujarat”. I sincerely hope that my work would add value to those who work in microfinance sector and will be able to reach out to all the households who are in need of microfinance.

Just like my topic microfinance works best when operated in groups, my study could also not have been completed without the support of several experienced individuals who have contributed, guided and supported me all through my study.

First and foremost, I am profusely thankful to my Guide, Dr. Bharati V. Pathak, Professor, Sheth Damodardas School of Commerce, Gujarat University. Her continuous guidance, and support, her kind nature and her attention to minute details have been a source of inspiration for me. She went out of her way and even sacrificed her personal time in providing me with timely inputs. I thank her with utmost humility. Without her support, it would not have been possible for me to submit my thesis on time.

I express my sincere thanks to the Director-Rural Development, SEWA, Ms. Reema Nanavaty, who encouraged me in my studies and provided me with the necessary guidance and inputs. Her experience and her suggestions have been extremely helpful to me in my chapters.

I am grateful to the MFI representatives who took time out of their busy schedules and talked to me on their experiences and provided me with valuable suggestions. Their inputs significantly contributed to my study. I express my heartfelt thanks to Ms. Nisha Dwivedi, Nodal Officer/Monitoring Manager, Pahal Financial Services Pvt. Ltd., Mr. Ravi Tull, State Head, Suryoday Microfinance Pvt. Ltd., Mr. Ajit D. Thacker, Adviser, Swayam Micro Services, Mr. Rasik Patel, Equitas Micro Finance Private Limited, and Mr. Divyang Bhatnagar, (who also happens to be my cousin), CEO-Saath Savings & Credit Coop. Soc. Ltd., SAATH Charitable Trust.

I am highly indebted to all the household members who untiringly and patiently answered all my questions. Their hospitality, warm welcome and their suggestions given to me during my interactions with them have been a remarkable contribution in this study. I humbly thank all of them.

I am thankful to Dr. Hemal Pandya, Professor, School of Commerce, Gujarat University who provided me valuable inputs into my statistical analysis. I also express my heartfelt thanks to Mr. Ashwin Jadeja, Administrative Officer, Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., who helped me run the statistical analysis using SPSS tools.

I extend my gratitude to Mr. Hasmukh Sadhu who helped me with the data collection in the villages and Ms. Siddhi Mehta, who helped me in entering the data and Mr. Pratik Parmar who helped me in formatting and making my thesis presentable.

I am grateful to my colleagues and subordinates at my office for patiently bearing with me and helping me complete my studies.

Friends in need are friends indeed. My special word of thanks goes to Ms. Vaishali Padhiyar, Development Officer, Gujarat University, who is a friend of mine and has stood by me during my all phases of research and has helped me out every time. I also express my heartfelt gratitude to Ms. Aparna Shah, Ms. Megha Desai and Ms. Rehana Riyawala, my close friends, who provided me with continuous encouragement and moral support.

Last but not the least, I have no words to thank my family, who has practically been doing the study along with me. I attribute my research to my mother, Mrs. Manorama Bhatnagar, who took up all the personal household responsibility on herself and uncomplainingly gave me the free time to concentrate on my study. I acknowledge the support of my father, Mr. Yuvrajkishore Bhatnagar and my Uncle, Late Mr. Kanhaiyalal Bhatnagar, who have been the inspirational source for me to pursue this study. I also sincerely thank my Aunt Mrs. Suniti Bhatnagar, who along with my mother shouldered the household responsibility and also took care of my small needs to provide me with conducive environment for my study. This study would not have been successful without the support of my sister Mrs. Ritu Saxena and my cousins Mr. Pallav Bhatnagar and Mr. Piyush Verma, who have accompanied me in data collection by travelling with me to the rural areas, helped me in preparing charts, diagrams and collages and have patiently been with me all through my study period. Without their encouragement and positive support, I would not have been able to complete this study. I express my heartfelt thanks to them. I also thank my nephew Mr. Deep Saxena, to provide me with internet files and computer related support. I am privileged to be a part of such a warm family.

Finally, I offer my deep sincere gratitude to God for all the blessings bestowed on me. I also thank all those who have directly or indirectly helped me in the successful completion of my study.
