

List of figures

Fig: 1.1	MIS and Decision-Making Process	6
Fig: 2.1.	Customer-Technology Contact	62
Fig: 2.2	The Technology Acceptance Model	63
Fig: 2.3	A Global Perspective on Paying on the Internet	64
Fig: 3.1	The two way Relationship Between Organizations and info-tech	82
Fig: 3.2	The Three Components of the Term MIS	86
Fig: 3.3	Types of Information	90
Fig: 3.4	System with Multiple Inputs and Outputs	92
Fig: 3.5	Types of Information System	97
Fig: 3.6	Information Systems Components	98
Fig: 3.7	Interrelationships among TPS, MIS, DSS	101
Fig: 3.8	Global online Populations by Region	106
Fig: 3.9	Popular Marketing Media used	108
Fig: 3.10	Numbers of ATMs of Scheduled Commercial Banks of India	110
Fig: 3.11	Cost of Internet banking over other mode of Banking	113
Fig: 3.12	Online Banking usage	114
Fig: 3.13	Statistics on Most Popular Mobile Banking Services	117
Fig: 4.1.	The Interrelationship among Variables	127
Fig: 4.2	Procedure of Study	129
Fig: 4.3	Classification of Primary Researches	136
Fig: 5.1	Research Model	146
Fig: 5.2	Managers Opinion on IT has Increased Bank Efficiency	160
Fig: 5.3	Managers Opinion on IT has Increased Bank Performance	161
Fig: 5.4	Managers Opinion on IT has Increased Bank Profitability	162
Fig: 5.5	Managers Opinion on MIS Practice and Effective Communication	163
Fig: 5.6	Managers Opinion on MIS Practice Reduced face2face Comm.	164
Fig: 5.7	Managers Opinion on Internet Banking	165

Fig: 5.8	MIS help Banks to Improve Service	166
Fig: 5.9	MIS help Banks Increase Customer Satisfaction	167
Fig: 5.10	Level of IT Implemented by the Banks	169
Fig5.11	Frequency of Online Banking Access	182
Fig 5.12	Ease of use of IB	183
Fig 5.13	Conducting Transaction using IB	184
Fig 5.14	Customers' Opinion on Complexity and Threat of new Technology	185
Fig: 5.15	Customers' Opinion on new Technology	186
Fig 5.16	Customers' Satisfaction in Regards to Delivery Performance	187
Fig 5.17	Customers' Satisfactory in Regards to Service	188
Fig: 5. 18	Customers' Satisfactory in Regards to Cost	189
Fig: 6. 1	Proposed Model of the study	202