Acknowledgements

Praise be to Allah, Full of Wisdom, Acquainted with all things, for bestowing strength, patience and health on me to finish this work. Without his mercy this work could not be possible.

I would like to express my deep gratitude to Dr. S. Nageswara Rao, my supervisor, not only for his invaluable scientific guidance, but also for his patience, constant encouragement and support at each stage of this dissertation in many ways. His encouragement and support have given me a boost of confidence when I most needed it. I will be grateful for his endless support. As this study is carried out in a different country, it had its own peculiar difficulties. It would have been immensely difficult for me without the precious efforts of my supervisor, who was providing me with feedback in time through constructive criticism that is much appreciated; which shortened the distance between Yemen and India, and made me feel at home.

Special and sincere thanks to my advisory members Prof. Dr. Chanchala Naik and Associate Prof. Dr. R. V. Anuradha for their helpful suggestions, and comments. I also wish to extend my extreme gratitude to Prof. Rajagopal and Prof. Paul Gunashekar, the former Deans of English Language Education School, EFL University, Prof. Mohanraj, the Dean of English Language Education School, EFL University, for their encouragement and continuous cooperation. Many thanks are extended to Dr. S. P. Zanke, North Maharashtra University, and Dr. T.J.M.S. Raju, Principal KPN college of Education for their valuable suggestions and comments. I would like to extend my special gratitude to all my M.Phil coursework teachers and to my Ph.D Reading course tutors: Dr. S. Nageswara Rao and Dr. R.V. Anuradha for all academic, research and valuable knowledge they passed on to me.

My cordial thanks extended to my friends for proofreading some chapters of my dissertation; Abdullah Alfalegg, Vijaya, Nisha, Sruti Akula, Cherry, Hassan Ba-Udhan. Dr. Najwa Saeed and Aisha Mohdar deserve special thanks for the time they are allocating for going through some drafts of this dissertation. Thanks also extend to my friend Arul Nehru for formatting the dissertation according to APA style 6th edition.

I would like also to thank Dr. Zahra Al-Saqaf, Dr. Khalid Al-Subai, Dr. Gamal Mohammed Ahmed, Dr. Mohammed Saleh AlShadadi, Dr. Fawzia Bin Othman and Dr. Mohammed Al-Badri for the facilities and support they provided me. Thanks are also due to all teacher-educators and fourth-year students in Aden, Zingabar, Loudar, Radfan and Yafea colleges of education for their cooperation during the collecting of the data. Special thanks to Dr. Jaklin Mansoor for her help on our arrival to India and for getting the Ph.D admission for us.

I must not fail to express my deep thanks to my colleagues, Dr. Mansour Sarhan, Hassan Ba-Udhan, Konkan Das, Abdullah Khalil, Nabeel Al-Somaiti, Fadhel Mohsen Al-Radfani, Mohammed Abdrabua and Lotfi Qees for their help, cooperation, friendship and love.

Heartfelt thanks to my mother, father, brothers, Ali and Marwan, my sisters, my cousin Wahdan and my relatives for their encouragement, love and prayers. A special thanks due to my mother for her constant prayers and for waiting patiently for me to finish the thesis and to get home. Special thanks to my brothers-in-law for their encouragement. Othman Mohdar deserves a warm gratitude for his continuous assistance and help during his stay in India.

Sincere and deep gratitude to my father-in-law, Saleh Mohdar, and my sisters-in-law who have been always there as a constant source of support and for everything my father-in-law did to follow my scholarship in Yemen. I owe special thanks to my Mother-in-law for her love and prayers. My warmest gratitude goes to them for their real love, prayers and support which gave me the spiritual strength to continue my higher studies.

My deep-hearted gratitude, warmest respect to my wife for her great devotion and patience, for being there during the most difficult times, for proofreading some chapters of this dissertation and for her precious support to help me chase this dream. To my lovely children, Manar, Leen and Hussein, thanks a million for all the smiles you put on my face and for the hugs you gave me that have always been a source of great motivation. Without my wife and my children this dissertation would not have become a reality.

Lastly, I thank anybody I missed, who deserves a mention.

Waddah Mahwari
