ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I owe my deepest gratitude to my supervisor, Prof. A. V. Ashok. His unflagging patience, great generosity with time and books, and nurturing care have played an essential role in the completion of this dissertation. In our decade-long association, you have always received encouragement me to read widely, and think independently. Most of all, thank you Sir, for your belief in me.

I owe equal gratitude to my co-supervisor, Prof. Lakshmi Chandra. From the very beginning, you have been like family to me. Our conversations, ranging from the academic to the deeply personal, are a source of great joy and comfort to me. You have been a wonderful guide. Thank you.

I cannot count the number of things I need to thank Dr. Rajiv C. Krishnan for. You have lent me books, given me valuable insights into research, and signed papers when I needed help. Our semester-end dinners are a cherished tradition.

I also thank Prof. Malathy Krishnan, who helped me discover my strengths as a teacher. Your insights have made me a better teacher and a better person.

Very special thanks to Gautama Polanki, Deepti Ramadoss, Diviya Pant, Mythili Menon, Benny Sumer Yanthan, and Dr. Rajiv C. Krishnan for assiduously proofreading and editing parts of this dissertation. I truly appreciate your invaluable help and your inputs. Thanks to Gautama for running through several drafts, and helping with the printing and binding.

My stint at Stanford University opened up new directions for my research. For that, I thank Prof. Jose David Saldivar, Dr. Sibylle Baumbach, Prof. Jean-Jacques Hublin, Prof. Ken Fields, and Dr. Eva Prionas.
A big thank you to all my friends without whose support, camaraderie, and love, this would simply not have become possible. Rahul, Gautama, and Satarupa, I cannot thank you enough for the comfort of long-standing friendship, company, conversation, and food. Shobhit and Uma, thank you for countless small and big things you have done for me so unassumingly. Prashanth and Deepa, honestly, what would I do without you two? Thank you so very much for the care you take, and the concessions you make. Namita and Catherine, thank you for turning Hawthorne Avenue into home. Afrah, Manisha, Monal, Veena, Vineet, Jyotika, Samata, Erika, Benny, Bharani, Koel, Prashanti, Mythili, Bishwaksen, Maria, Sneha, Sanjay, Chandra—thank you all for being there. Usha, Deepti, and Uma—you ladies deserve special mention. Our girls' group keeps up the cheer. I thank, from the bottom of my heart, all those whose threats and bribes, coaxing and counseling, kept me going through these years.

Gratitude is due to the staff of The Ramesh Mohan Library (EFLU), of Sai Xerox, and of the Cecil H. Green Library (Stanford), for their assistance. I thank Chalapathi, Santu Babu, and Pushyaragam, from the Non-Formal Courses Office, EFLU, for their warmth and cheer.

Finally, I am deeply grateful to my family. You have supported my choices and allowed me to live life on my terms. I have derived great strength from your faith in me. Your encouragement and care have helped me tide over the more difficult parts of this phase. I hope the dissertation will make you all proud.
