

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I offer special thanks to my guide, Dr.B.Venkat Rao, without whose encouragement this thesis would ever have reached a conclusive point. The support and patience he showed was tremendous, especially during times of intense academic work. Apart from his profound inspiration, I would like to extend my gratitude for the textual procurements he helped me with, and the vast field of critical discourse that he opened for my study. In my opinion, without his aid this project would not have met the requirement of a theoretical rigor, which I hope it has achieved towards its conclusion.

I thank Prof. Bangya Bukhya for his guidance for four semesters, Prof. T. Nageshwar Rao for guiding me in one of my course work and always supporting me to complete my research. Dr.Konna Prakash as an advisory committee and the support he has given to me to finish this project. I also thank my head of the department and Dean Prof.Rama Devi for her continuous support which has encouraged me to complete in time.

I am very Thankful to have benefited from the help and support of a number of people during this project among who are teachers who helped me at its potential stages Dr.Chinnadevi, Dr.Raju Naik, Mr.Jai Singh, Prof. Sudhakar, Dr.Anuradha, Dr.Sujatha Mukri, Dr.Venkatesh Naik, Dr.Shyam Rao Rathod and office staff Sulochana, Muzzaffar, Sridevi and Sharada.

This work could not have been possible without the generous presence of certain friends and co-students who supported me in an important way. It may not be possible to pen down all the names, but I fall in my duty if I do not mention some of them, who have been extremely helpful in this endeavour they mainly include Mohan Dharavath, Supriya Rathord, Ravinder Padiya, Maloth Upender, Sruthi, Bheem Rao, Veeru Nayak, Niveditha, Kavitha and many others who successfully kept me on the road to progress.

My special thanks to the library staff, notably Mr.Tukaram, Satish, Manisha, Sarojini, Sampath and the staff members of the Tribal Cultural Museum

I wish to thank UGC for granting me the Rajiv Gandhi National Fellowship.

Above all I would like to Thanks my parents and my beloved family members.

I strongly give my Thanks to my beloved husband Mr.Rajeshwar, who supported me throughout my studies and without him this research was not an end. My daughters S.Nithya Chouhan and S.Taruni Chouhan, who stayed alone in my absence and gave their continuous support to complete my Research. Apart from this my close family member one i would like to mention and thank them for their support and encouragement is M. Venkateshwarlu, M. Manjula, Jeshwanth, Kundana, Dharmik for her tiny and sweet words ‘ mummy we will go to college’. And special thanks to my Brother Dr.Ramesh Arya who guided me in throughout my research.

Last but not the least; I would like to offer my gratitude to the controller of Examinations, Mr. Suresh his office staff and also Dean, Research Prof. Amali Raj and office staff.
