

List of tables

Table 1: A comparison of Andragogy and Pedagogy- Teaching implications

Table 2: Chaudron's (1988) four-way distinction

Table 3: The SETT framework (Walsh 2006:66)

Table 4: The revised SETT framework

Table 5: Reflective Framework for Classroom Discourse (RFCD)

Table 6: Philosophical traditions

Table 7 General tendencies of quantitative and qualitative research (Schreiber and Asner-Self, 2011)

Table 8: Responses to item 1 (Part B of Questionnaire)

Table 9: Responses to item 3 (Part B of Questionnaire)

Table 10: Responses to item 5 (Part B of Questionnaire)

Table 11: Responses to item 6 (Part B of Questionnaire)

Table 12: Responses to item 1 (Part C of Questionnaire)

Table 13: Responses to item 2 (Part C of Questionnaire)

Table 14: Responses to item 3 (Part C of Questionnaire)

Table 15: Responses to item 4 (Part C of Questionnaire)

Table 16: Number of teacher turn and learner turn from random class data

Table 17: Number of words exchanged from random class data

Table 18: Teacher and learner roles identified for revised SETT tool

Table 19: New modes, pedagogic goals, features and roles identified

Table 20: The 'change' measured in each of the case studies