ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

My greatest debt of gratitude is to Dr. R. Nagaraj, who converted formless and recalcitrant putty to recognizable form. He has taught me to think; this is one of the highest compliments one can pay.

Dr P.M.Bhargava's foresight and almost unbelievable efforts have made life very pleasant, whether at the bench, in the library, or in the canteen! We, at CCMB, owe him much gratitude.

I have been helped 'beyond the call of duty' by Prof. H. Sharat Chandra, Dr M.R.Das, and Prof. D. Balasubramanian, and am very grateful to them. Prof. Balasubramanian has pushed me into activities that would otherwise not have been ventured into. I learned something from each of these exercises and would like to thank him for them.

I would also like to express my gratitude to:

all the support staff that I encountered, for being cooperative and prompt without exception. The number of people who have helped me are too many to name, but very special thanks to Shri B. Gopinath and his colleagues of the instrumentation group, without whose efforts this study would have been a non-starter;

Prakash and Bhaskar of the xerox section, and Ashok Baswa, G. Giridharan and R. Koteswara Rao of the drawing section who completed mammoth tasks in record time;

V.M.Dhople and M.V. Jagannadham who ran the amino acid analyser and sequencer on saturdays and holidays, at all hours;

Dr. Nagaraj and Thennarasu for a gift of purified 14P-Am and Dr. C.S. Sundaram for collaboration on the NMR studies;

Professors O. S. Andersen, P. Balaram and M. K. Jain for useful discussions and Drs. Y.V.Mahalakshmi and Chenchal Rao for loaning me otherwise unavailable reviews on circular dichroism.
Thanks also to Dipankar Manna who asked me if I had a feel for every amino acid - a timely reminder of perspective.

I have had the extreme good fortune, in years gone by, of having been taught by Prof. P. Mohanty. He did his students a favour by telling them that they didn't know anything, and this and other advice has remained with me.

I would like to thank everyone on my floor, especially, for making it a nice work place. Members of our group, in particular, have been free with advice, criticism and support. Laxma and members of the 'joint family' deserve my thanks for high orders of friendship and help rendered. Vinisha has been an inspiring and solid friend.

Many thanks to Narasimha Rao, who rendered invaluable help when the piles of glassware were the highest.

A word of gratitude to the C.S.I.R. for a handsome fellowship.

Members of my family(ies), in particular, have been a source of inspiration, and bed rocks of support. I thank them all.
